

ABSTRACT

A sealant including a reactive silicon group-containing acryl or saturated hydrocarbon based polymer, which causes no staining of a transparent material to be sealed and suppresses deterioration of the sealant when the sealant is applied to the material, such as glass subjected to an anti-staining treatment based on a photocatalytic layer.